Ce site utilise des cookies provenant de Google afin de fournir ses services, personnaliser les annonces et analyser le trafic. Les informations relatives à votre utilisation du site sont partagées avec Google. En acceptant ce site, vous acceptez l'utilisation des cookies.

EN SAVOIR PLUS OK!

A "Must Read" Blog for Insiders. --Wall Street Journal "...often-entertaining, always informative..." -- MedAdNews

Newsletter	Podcasts	Events	Industry Insights	Surveys
Newsletter	Poucasts	Events	industry msignts	Surveys

M o n d

Fans & Bananas: Viagra Ads in Japan

Hat tip to my friend @blogaceutics (Miguel Tovar) who tweeted about a "novel twist" on Viagra advertising in Japan: paper fans that promote Viagra (see above).

As reported by RocketNews24 (here), hand-held fans like these -- emblazoned with commercial messages and logos -- are popular in Japan when it gets hot. Personally, I'd rather die of heat exhaustion than use these fans in public! (although I'd love to get my hands on one :-)

According to RocketNews24, "while many applauded the creativeness of these fans, many net users wrote it off as 'gay' or 'just for fujoshi." According to wikipedia, fujoshi is a self-mockingly pejorative Japanese term for female fans of novels that feature romantic relationships between men.

The Viagra fans are from a few years back, and some commenters say they received them at various events. "It's a testament to its effectiveness how even after so long someone can still rack up over 12,000 retweets from posting it."

The fans may be an effective marketing ploy, but are not very effective in keeping you cool. Perhaps, like Viagra, only 25% of men find them effective?

But I have an even BETTER Viagra marketing idea.

Have you noticed the peeled bananas depicted on these fans? What if Pfizer were able to make a deal with Chiquita Bananas to put its logo on bananas sold in Japan? That might even be more effective as a viral marketing ploy and appeal to dirty old men who like to see girls eating bananas (there must be a pejorative Japanese term for such men).

About the Author

PharmaGuy

Pharmaguy™ (@pharmaguy) is a "constructive critic" of the pharmaceutical industry. He is not shy about giving his opinion, which is respected by many insiders who share some of his views but who are unable to voice them on their own.

View my complete profile

Digital Disruption in Pharma

What's going on in the world of social media, mo... curated by Pharma Guy

Stories & Insights Regarding Marketing Regulat... curated by Pharma Guy

Follow Me on Google+

OK, I'm getting carried away with all this, but I found one more interesting image in my research on wikipedia: some banana plants have female flowers that have petals and other flower parts at the tip of the ovary that resemble male genitalia, testes and all:

Or is it just me that sees this?

3 comments:

FERNANDO COMAS/PHARMACOSERÍAS 4:30 AM

This viagra ad this is not from japan is korean. http://fooyoh.com/menknowpause_lifestyle_living/4546709

http://pharmacoserias.blogspot.com.es/

Regards

Reply

Bimakuru 2:43 AM

lucu... hahahhaa :))

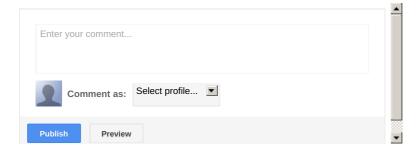

Reply

Addison Conroy 7:06 AM

Many an afternoon has been enjoyed by a family, bonding over the discussion of viagra. While it is becoming a hot topic for debate, there are just not enough blues songs written about viagra. Inevitably feelings run deep amongst global commercial enterprises, who are likely to form a major stronghold in the inevitable battle for hearts and minds. Hold onto your hats as we begin a journey into viagra.

Reply

Links to this post

Create a Link

Newer Post Home Older Post

Search This Blog

Messages from Our Sponsors

Tweets by @PharmMktingAds

Tweets by @pharmaguy

Popular Posts From Last 7 Days

Is The End of Animated Characters in Drug Ads Neigh?

Merck has decided to dump its furry white vs black feline critters in its new direct-to-consumer advertising campaign for Belsomra saying th...

Farewell Pharma Friends! Beware of the PharmaGovernment Complex!

It's my 71st birthday and I decided it's a good time for me to move on to a new role. Unbelievable, right? John "PharmaGuy&qu...

Purdue's Opioid Marketing is Target of a Federal Criminal Probe

As reported by Bloomberg : Federal prosecutors in Connecticut began a criminal investigation into Purdue Pharma Inc.'s marketing of the

Is FDA Too Slow to Approve New Drugs?

Subscribe to: Post Comments (Atom)

Back in March, 2017, President Trump "called on the Food and Drug Administration to speed the approval of drugs to treat life-threate...

Blog Archive

Pharma Marketing Network Links

LIIKS

- July 2013 (12)
- NewsletterPodcasts
- Events
- Industry News
- Surveys

News & Views of Responsible Marketers

The Pharma Digital Health Accelerator Club

Companies Leading the Way Implementing Disruptive Innovations This article features several examples of what the pharmaceutical industry is doing to implement disruptive digital innovations that help them manage clinical trials, improve their products, and support healthcare professionals and pat...

01/15/18 7:53 am

Drop in U.S. Life Expectancy

Despite Hope in New Drugs According to the CDC, the average life expectancy at birth in the U.S. fell by 0.1 years, to 78.6, in 2016, following a similar drop in 2015. This is the first time in 50 years that life expectancy has fallen for two years running. In 25 other developed countries, life e...

01/15/18 7:50 am

Pfizer's "Dick" Move

Raises Price of Viagra Pfizer, the largest stand-alone pharmaceutical company in the US, raised the average wholesale price of 148 drugs by between 6 and 13.5 per cent, according to data, with a mean average increase of 8.8 per cent.

01/15/18 7:48 am

Copyright 2016. Pharma Marketing Network. All rights reserved. Simple theme. Powered by Blogger.